

Sourcing

Our sales force is focused on getting you the product you need, when you need it, including those parts deemed, obsolete, and hard-to-find. Call us or use our online part finder to begin your search.

Stocking

Our purchasing team works around the clock to understand your needs, the market, and the commodities to bring you one of the largest inventories of semiconductors and passive components via our consigned inventory and our exclusive stock of commodity products.

Solutions

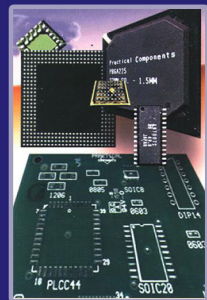

Because the challenges of today's dynamic market stretch your job responsibilities beyond sourcing, we work with you to customize programs in excess inventory management, mature product marketing, and end-of-life buys.

Standards

Our promise to deliver consistent quality and service is guaranteed by careful, continuous reviews of our processes. The proof is in our quality of excellence, the standards that drive every move within our organization

Service

At AAT Technology, Inc. customer service doesn't stop after you've placed your order. From the moment you contact us to the second we respond to your needs, to the period during which your order is fulfilled and after you receive your shipment, we're standing by to ensure your total customer satisfaction.
